

Dear Future student,

Be warned now that you are embarking on the path of psychotic torture. Through the loss of your social life you will agonize over your work to the point of nausea and funky bowl movements. You will only see the light of day through baggy eyes. But know that after 5 hour reading assignments, grueling critical harassment and "typersfinger" (don't ask) you will walk away with the ability to survive all of the worst hardships this life has to offer. This class will guide through the hairiest journeys of life and you get free cookies and a donut at the end.

Best of luck in your future writing endeavors.

PS: Do all the readings, they're key to success.

PPS: If you spell like I do you will fail like I do...I mean did.
