

Letter to Next Year's College Writing Class

A Balancing Act

Plan on spending a good portion of your weekend on essays— either researching or writing. The day between class you will spend some time on homework. Try to work ahead when you have time. Read the They Say/ I Say assignment before writing the next essay. If you are taking a course in addition to this one, plan on quitting your day job.

If I Knew Then What I Know Now

Just do the assignments— take it one day at a time. Pay attention in class, and relax— it wasn't as bad as we thought it would be. Be prepared to work hard. You get out of it what you put into it. The mix of ages also gives a different perspective.

Leanne, Bernie, Colleen, Mary Rose, Bianca and Jane
October 25, 2006